

Mission

The Advanced Strategic Planning & Policy Program selects and develops field-grade officers as strategic leaders through a combination of practical experience, senior-level professional military education, and doctoral degree from a university in a field of study related to strategy in order to produce broadly networked leaders with strategic acumen, skills, and credentials.

Future Assignments

- CSL Command
- OSD
- Joint Staff
- Army Staff
- HQDA
- NATO
- Army Commands
- Combatant Commands
- Theater Commands
- JTFs
- Intelligence Community

ASP3 Includes

- Strategic Planning Experience
- Professional Education
- Doctorate Degree

Contact Us

School of Advanced Military Studies
201 Reynolds Avenue (Muir Hall)
Fort Leavenworth, Kansas 66027
(913) 758-3193 or (913) 758-3192
usarmy.leavenworth.tradoc.mbx.armyu-cgscsams-asp3@army.mil
<https://armyuniversity.edu/cgsc/sams/sams>

THE SCHOOL OF ADVANCED MILITARY STUDIES

ADVANCED STRATEGIC PLANNING AND POLICY (ASP3)

ASP3 Outcomes

- Effectively lead American and foreign peers, subordinates, seniors, and teams
- Progress “from the back bench to the table” - from advising senior leaders to becoming one
- Communicate clearly, effectively, and memorably to domestic and foreign audiences
- Negotiate and collaborate effectively with people from a wide range of institutions and cultures
- Leverage a global network of experts and leaders across governments, academia, and cultures
- Understand strategically relevant processes and temporal cycles of governments and institutions
- Assess, design, and execute strategy, applying theory, history, specialized knowledge, and analytical methods
- Deliver products that impress - rather than merely satisfy - senior elected, appointed, or commissioned leaders
- Contribute to national security in each of these ways after transition from active service

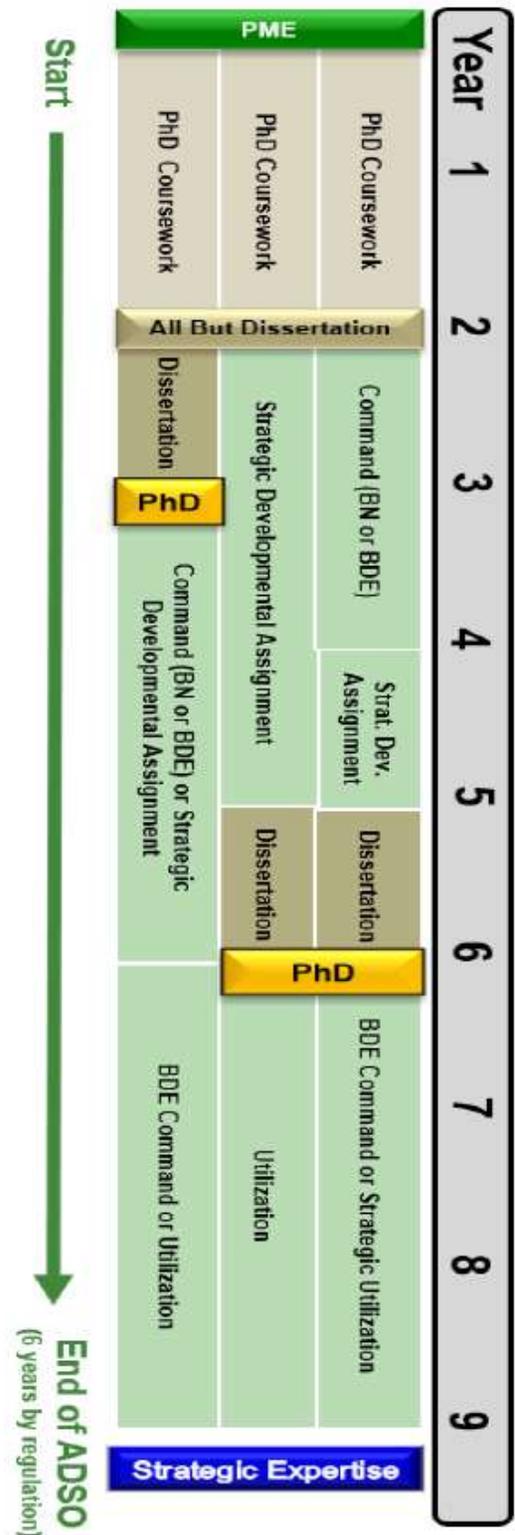

COSNEWS

Home Top News
 Army Officers Return To Duty With Doctorate Degrees

Why a Doctorate

- Combines
 - Mastery of a broad base of knowledge in a field of study
 - Developing a deep understanding of a specific subject
- Skills, methods, experience, and education to “create new knowledge”
- Requires creating new models and lexicon that resonate with others
- Exposure to an array of viewpoints and methods
- Extensive experience in research and writing
- An appreciation for well-crafted arguments
- Enhances a natural skepticism
- Expanded professional network

Flexible Career Tracks – 13 Cohorts (2012-2024): 134 US Army Officers